III. READING

A. Read the passage, then decide whether the statements that follow are True or False(1pt)

The ao dai, the traditional dress of Vietnamese women, has been mentioned in many poems, novels and songs. It is a long silk tunic that is slit on the sides and worn over loose pants. Vietnamese women usually wear it, especially on special occasions such as Tet, Vietnamese Teachers' Day, or Wedding Anniversary. Nowadays, some fashion designers have made it more and more beautiful by changing the traditional ao dai. Some of them print lines of poetry on it, or they add the patterns such as sun, stars, crosses, and stripes to the ao dai. The ao dai becomes the national clothing, just like Kimono in Japan. Every morning, thousands of schoolgirls in white ao dai make the streets look nicer. Vietnamese women continue to wear this unique and fashionable dress.

Choose True (T) or False (F). (1.0 point)

- .....1. The ao dai isn't the traditional dress of Vietnamese women.
- .....2. Vietnamese women never wear the ao dai on special occasions.
- .....3. The Ao Dai is a long silk tunic that is slit on the sides and worn over loose pants.

Last summer Nga decided to take a two-week course in England, because she wanted to improve her English. On her first day at the language school, they gave her a test, and the teacher told her, "We'll put you in the top class". She was very pleased to hear that, and she proudly told all her friends at home: "I'm one of the best students!". But soon she was surprised to find how difficult the class was. She also felt very homesick. "It's hard to adapt to life in another country!" she thought. At the end of two weeks, her English was much better, but she was happy to return home!

Questions:

- Where did Nga take a course last summer?
- How long did the course last?
- Did she feel homesick?
- How was her English after the course?
